MEET THE HORSES

More resident bios and photos are available upon request.

Name:	Paisley
Breed:	Mustang

Rescue Story: Paisley was abandoned by a previous owner after selling his property. The new property owners wanted her gone no matter what. Still wild and fearful, her only option would have been euthanasia. Douglas County Animal Control contacted Duchess Sanctuary, and she was welcomed into the herd in September 2013.

Name:	Felina
Breed:	Draft Cross

Rescue Story: Formerly a PMU mare, Felina stood in a narrow stall while pregnant as her urine was collected to make Premarin®, a hormone replacement therapy drug for menopausal women. When the PMU ranch lost their contract, she was headed to slaughter with 88 other mares. Now she roams the pastures at Duchess Sanctuary and poses for the camera.

Herbie at time of rescue

Name:	Herbie
Breed:	Pony

Rescue Story: Originally rescued by the Ark Watch Foundation, Herbie immediately came to Duchess Sanctuary for the rehabilitation of his severely overgrown feet. More than 24 inches of hoof were removed to start, and sanctuary staff have been diligently working on his feet and comfort for more than two years. Herbie has been a model patient and loves people, despite what he has endured. Read more about Herbie's story here.

Name:	Waldo
Breed:	Quarter Horse

Rescue Story: Abandoned by an unknown owner and left to starve on public land with 10 other horses in the Molalla area, Waldo and four others came to Duchess Sanctuary in 2008. He arrived malnourished, terrified of the world and still a stallion. Waldo had further complication of cryptorchidism, meaning one testicle was retained in his abdomen. Surgery corrected that, and he now enjoys life in the pasture with about 35 friends. Shown on right in the photo.

SPECIAL EVENTS AND VISITING

Duchess Sanctuary is not open to the general public on a regular basis. The sanctuary hosts two open house events per year where everyone is invited.

Next Open House: Sept. 13, 2014

Duchess Sanctuary holds photography workshops twice a year as fundraising events. Guided by sanctuary staff and a professional photographer, camera buffs spend a few hours in the field with the herds, learn more about horses and photography while using their equipment. It is a rare opportunity to see large groups of horses in a natural environment, and a great chance to photograph outdoors in a beautiful setting. All proceeds from the workshops benefit the care of the horses.

Next Photography Workshop: Sept. 20, 2014

Private tours may be arranged with Jennifer Kunz upon request, as schedules permit. Typically these 60-90 minute tours are for small groups, and a minimum donation of $25 per person is appreciated.

LEADERSHIP

Jennifer Kunz has been the Ranch Manager of Duchess Sanctuary since its opening 2008. Horse crazy since birth, Kunz spent numerous years in the western performance and breeding aspects of the equine industry. In 1999, she became involved with horse rescue by saving a few horses at a time with friends. In 2001, Kunz joined a volunteer organization that found adoptive homes for pregnant mare urine (PMU) industry foals, and placed more than 1,200 horses across Canada and the U.S. during the next four years. After graduating from college, Kunz began working for the Ark Watch Foundation managing their Knightsbridge Farm in Alberta. The farm was home to more than 140 rescued horses, most from the PMU industry. When Ark Watch partnered with The HSUS in 2008 to open Duchess Sanctuary, she moved to Oregon to take on the role as Ranch Manager. Kunz volunteers with the Oregon Hay Bank and is an active participant in the Homes for Horses Coalition.

- Donate your time by volunteering.

VOLUNTEERING

Duchess Sanctuary has an expanding volunteer program allowing community members to learn about horses, sanctuary management and more while supporting the sanctuary's mission.

There are opportunities for volunteers of all experience levels, including:

- Direct equine care – feeding, grooming and etcetera
- Landscaping
- Office assistant
- Community outreach and events, fundraising
- Volunteer leadership

To make best use of resources, individuals who have the time to make a regular (weekly or biweekly) effort, and can commit to an initial minimum 50 hours of service are preferred.

Casual volunteers may attend any of our monthly work days.

Next monthly work days: Sept. 6, 2014 and Oct. 4, 2014
