OF THE UNITED STATES

Wringer Literature Circle Unit

The following unit is written for Jerry Spinelli's award-winning book Wringer (New York: HarperCollins, 1997), in which a young boy struggles with the conflict of whether or not to take part in a cruel tradition. Upon turning 10, boys in his town are expected to become "wringers," responsible for wringing the necks of wounded pigeons at the annual Pigeon Day shoot. This book and corresponding literature circle helps students to examine ethical dilemmas, build compassion, and take an in-depth look at peer pressure and bullying.

Procedure

Opening Questions/Predictions

After passing out the books, ask students to look closely at the cover art. As they look at the cover read the back cover to the group. Ask the students to predict the following:

- ♦ Who is the visitor?
 - ♦ What is a wringer?
 - ♦ Based on the picture on the cover, describe the feelings of the boy.
1. Review with students that they are going to complete a literature circle for the book Wringer by Jerry Spinelli. To be sure all students understand the literature circle, complete the first two chapters as a large group with you acting as the Discussion Director and the students completing each role. Define each role for the students and show the corresponding worksheet before reading. You may wish to copy the Literature Circle Role Definition Sheet (page 8) and provide one to each student for reference.

Section One (Chapters One and Two), pages 1-10

1. Ask students to read pages 1-10 (Chapters One and Two. This may be done silently, in a round, or as a read-aloud. Acting as the Discussion Director, ask prepared questions from the Discussion Director worksheet during and after reading. (You may wish to project the page onto a white board or create a poster size sample as a model for the rest of the literature circle.)

Example:

Q. What is the significance of the newspaper article printed before the first chapter at the beginning of the book?

A. This article tells about the annual event in Palmer's town that involves shooting and killing pigeons. Palmer refers to this topic often in the book.

2. Pass out a Summarizer Worksheet (page 9) to each student. (You may wish to project the sheet onto a white board or create a large model.) Review the requirements for the role and ask each student to fill in the page numbers and key points at the bottom of the page. Create a group summary using the notes created by the students. Each student should write this on his or her sheet.

Example:

In this first section of the book, Palmer celebrates his tenth birthday. This birthday is important and represents him coming of age or growing up. Because of this birthday Palmer is now a part of the neighborhood gang of boys. They are invited to his birthday party, and they give him a nickname and gifts that are mostly trash.

3. Pass out a Character Sketcher Worksheet (page 11) to each student. Ask the students to think about Palmer LaRue, a.k.a. "Snots." Ask the students to find four character traits that describe Palmer. Write these, with corresponding page and paragraph, on the board. As each trait is written discuss the proof of that trait in Palmer.

As a group, create a question about Palmer and why he acts the way he does. Ask each student to write this on his or her worksheet.

Example:

(trait) worrier p. 4 paragraph three

Proof: It was simply, merely there, a whisper of featherwings, reminding him of the moment he dreaded above all others, the moment when the not wanting to be a wringer would turn into becoming one.

Question: Why does Palmer worry about becoming a wringer? What is a wringer?

Ask each student to create a drawing of Palmer.

4. Pass out a Passage Picker Worksheet (page 12) to each student. Ask students to find one passage that they feel is very meaningful to the section read and fill out the first four sections of the worksheet.

Example:

"The pigeon's eye is like a polished shirt button. The pigeon's eye is orange with a small black button in the center. It looks up at him...wring it!" (p. 4 par. 4)

Type of passage: Foreshadowing

Ask students to share their passages and type of passage.

Ask students to write two questions about their chosen passage. Take examples and ask the rest of the class to answer the questions.

5. Pass out a Word Wizard Worksheet (page 10) to each student. Ask students to review the first four pages of the book and write down one word that they are unsure of or do not recognize. Ask students to help you create a short list on the board. Once you have a short list review the role of Word Wizard and remind students that the Word Wizard will choose at least four important words to define for the group.

Ask the class to help you complete the Word Wizard worksheet using some of the sample words from the list.

Example:

punctured p. 3 par. 4*

Sentence: Like air escaping a punctured tire, it would...

Definition: to put a hole or cut in an object

How does the word add meaning to the story?

It shows how Palmer felt that something was escaping from him and the escaping worry would engulf him.

cackled p. 7 par. 1*

Sentence: Mutto cackled and did likewise.

Definition: talking or laughing in a manner that is annoying

How does the word add meaning to the story?

A witch or someone evil may cackle. Mutto may not have good intentions.

Students should then choose one word and create a Word Wizard Card using their notebooks or prepared cards.

6. Review the Checker Sheet with the class showing an example. (There is no need to make copies for each child in section one.) You may wish to restate that this is not seen by everyone and that it is between the Checker and the educator.

The students have now completed Section One of the Wringer literature circle. Upon completion of the Section One worksheets, split the students into groups of five using any method you see fit. (If the student number does not allow for equal groups, you may wish to combine two roles for smaller groups or have two of one role for larger groups.)

Once groups have been created, assign each person in the group one of the roles and provide him or her with the corresponding literature circle worksheet(s). You may wish to remind student that the roles rotate.

Complete the next sections of the book utilizing the same steps used in Section One. Below you will find example vocabulary words, discussion questions, and extension activities for each section of the book.

Extension Activity

Read Pennsylvania Pigeon Shoots at humanesociety.org/issues/contest_kills/facts/pennsylvania_pigeon_shoots.html. Write to legislators or newspapers in states where pigeon shoots occur and ask them to stop the cruel practice.

Other animals are also killed in similar “contests”. Find out more at humanesociety.org/issues/contest_kills/ and humanesociety.org/issues/contest_kills/tips/stop_wildlife_killing_contests.html.

Closure:

Celebrate the closure of the book by holding a Humane Family Fest. Ask each literature circle group to create a pigeon-themed carnival game. The groups should use their knowledge of pigeons, the vocabulary words chosen by the various Word Wizards, and content from the book in creating games. Consider inviting local humane organizations to set up tables. Invite the community to the festival.

Tell Us About It:

We would love to hear about your experiences with this unit and any extension activities. Send a summary of your work with the book to Stephanie Clark at sclark@humanesociety.org. Your group may be featured on our website!

Literature Circle Role Definitions

Discussion Director

The Discussion Director/Checker is a two-part role. The first part (Discussion Director) is to create questions that involve your group by having them think about and discuss the part of the book just read. Your questions should be those that ask students to explain why, interpret, and connect with the story. Your job is to keep all of the students involved. The Discussion Director Worksheet may be used or the Discussion Director may come up with his or her own questions. (Ten or more questions are required.) These questions will be asked during and after reading. If the group is larger, this can be split into two roles.

Checker

The Checker is responsible for making sure that each role in the literary circle has been completed. The Checker will use the Checker Worksheet. A checker must honestly evaluate the work of the group and his or her comments remain private between the educator and the Checker. This worksheet is turned in at the completion of each section. This role may be combined with the Discussion Director role if the group is small.

Summarizer

The Summarizer will create a summary of the assigned reading. You will write down key points of the reading using the Summarizer Worksheet (page 9). The group discussion will begin with your review which covers key points, main characters, highlights, and a general idea of the reading assignment. This may be presented in narrative or paragraph form, as a poem, a rap, or any other way you feel fits with the reading.

Character Sketcher

The Character Sketcher is required to draw and explain one or more of the important characters in the assigned section. To begin, find a minimum of four character traits or descriptors that are representative of this character as you read. (Find a list of sample traits at www.readwritethink.org/files/resources/lesson_images/lesson175/traits.pdf.) Remember that some character traits will be implied, or not directly stated – you will understand the trait by the characters' actions. Use strong descriptive words. Do NOT use words like good, bad, nice, mean. Write down the page and paragraph where you found this information using the Character Sketcher Worksheet (page 11). At the bottom of the worksheet, come up with a question about this character's motives. The drawing is done last and can be placed on the back of the worksheet or on another piece of paper.

Passage Picker

The Passage Picker must find at least one passage that is important in the assigned section. Often there will be two or three important passages. The Passage Picker will fill in the Passage Picker Worksheet (page 12) information including page and paragraph location so he or she can help the group locate that passage during discussion. During the group discussion the Passage Picker asks a group member to read the chosen passage aloud, asks the group why they feel that was an important passage, and then asks the group the "thinking" question and chosen question from the bottom of the worksheet. The Passage Picker will review the questions and answers with the group.

Word Wizard

The Word Wizard will find a minimum of four important words for the assigned reading. The Word Wizard will write the word, page and paragraph where the word is found, and the sentence in which the word is used on the Word Wizard Worksheet (page 10). The Word Wizard will then look up each word in the dictionary and, using everything known about the word, create a definition and tell how the word adds meaning to the story. (Students should be encouraged to ask the educator to check the definitions.) Finally, the Word Wizard will create "Word Wizard Cards" (large flashcards) using the directions on the worksheet for each chosen word.

During group discussion the Word Wizard places the "Word Wizard Card" with the word, page number, and paragraph number side showing. The Word Wizard will ask the group to turn to the page and paragraph where the word is located and review the passage. Ask the group to look at the context clues and guess the meaning of the word, asking them to explain their guesses. Flip the card over to the side containing the definition and ask the group to add the word, page, and definition to their journal. Each student (including the Word Wizard) will then create a sentence for each word, placing these in their journals.

Summarizer Worksheet

Your job is to prepare a brief summary of the assigned reading. The group discussion will begin with your review, which covers key points, main characters, highlights, and a general idea of the reading assignment. COMBAT CRUELTY

WHAT IS ANIMAL CRUELTY?

Animal abuse has many faces and comes in many forms. It's a dog in a puppy mill producing litter after litter of puppies. It's an elephant or tiger forced to perform for a circus crowd. It's a dog or rooster thrown into a pit and made to fight to the death. It's a raccoon tortured at the hands of teenagers for "fun." It may even be a pet in your neighborhood, who is mistreated or doesn't get enough food, water, or attention. In short, it's any behavior that's harmful or life-threatening to an animal.

Why should you care? Because it's the right thing to do. Because cruelty to animals is illegal. And because people who harm animals may also harm people. Stopping cruelty to animals helps everyone.

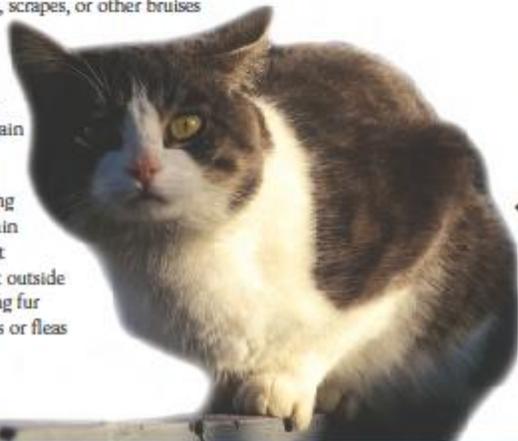

JUST THE FACTS

- ◆ Cruelty to animals is illegal in all 50 states and a felony in 44.
- ◆ Most cruelty investigated by humane officers is unintentional neglect that can be resolved through education.
- ◆ Intentional cruelty is knowingly depriving an animal of food, water, shelter, socialization, or veterinary care or maliciously torturing, maiming, mutilating, or killing an animal.
- ◆ Intentional animal abuse is often committed by a person who feels powerless and unnoticed. The motive may be to shock, threaten, intimidate, or offend others. Some who are cruel to animals copy things they have seen or that have been done to them. Others see harming an animal as a way to get revenge on someone who cares about that animal.
- ◆ Studies indicate that in homes where animal abuse takes place, child and spouse abuse are often occurring as well.

KNOW THE SIGNS

The following are common clues that an animal might be in trouble. They don't necessarily mean a pet has been hurt on purpose, but they shouldn't be ignored. Look out for animals who:

- ◆ have cuts, scrapes, or other bruises
- ◆ duck, whimper, or act aggressive when certain people approach
- ◆ are limping
- ◆ are too thin
- ◆ are almost always left outside
- ◆ are missing fur
- ◆ have ticks or fleas

FIGHTING FOR THEIR LIVES

Cockfighting and dogfighting are centuries-old "blood sports" in which two animals are forced to fight in a pit. People watching the fights bet on who will win. Those who organize and attend these fights see the animals' pain and suffering as "entertainment."

- ◆ Dogfights may last one to two hours and end only when one of the dogs is no longer willing or able to continue.
- ◆ Cockfights, which may last several minutes to half an hour, usually result in at least one animal's death.
- ◆ Dogfighting and cockfighting are against the law in all 50 states. Dogfighting is a felony in all 50 states, while cockfighting is a felony in 35 states.
- ◆ Animal fighting is usually accompanied by other illegal activities. Raids of animal fights often turn up illegal firearms and drugs. Young children are often present at animal fights, sometimes even taking part in gambling.

CAPE COD TIMES/STEVE REASLP

YOU CAN HELP!

- ◆ Be on the lookout. If you see any signs of animal abuse, write down the details, including date, time, location, and descriptions of the people and animals involved. If there are other people around, ask them for their names and phone numbers. Ask a parent, teacher, or other trusted adult for help in reporting the case. You should never handle something as serious as animal cruelty alone! Then contact your local animal shelter, animal care and control officer, or sheriff's department. (You can usually find this information in the phone book.) Provide them with the details you have gathered.
- ◆ Be a role model. Set a good example for others by being a responsible pet caregiver. Cats are safest when kept indoors. When outdoors, dogs should be walked on a leash or supervised in a fenced yard. Keep your pets safe and out of harm's way. Be kind to all animals and let others know that hurting animals is wrong. Speak up for animals and urge others to do the same!
- ◆ Join Mission: Humane and do the "Combat Cruelty" project. Spread the word about the need for tough anti-cruelty laws, and teach kids to be kind to animals. Visit humane.society.org/teens to get started!
